

MESOPHILIC AEROBIC BACTERIAL COUNT

(ISO 21149:2006)

This determination constitutes a rapid, effective and economic control that should be routinely used to verify the microbiological quality of the cosmetic formulations .

Further to this verification it is suggested to perform also the mycete determination to complete the basic microbiological control of the cosmetics.

From these initial verifications, it could be even necessary to proceed with the research and the identification of possible pathogenic microorganisms, that can constitute a danger for the consumers' health.